

Completion of On-line Preparation Programs for Licensure

On-line educator preparation programs including an initial or additional instructional, administration or school services license must either be:

1. accredited by NCATE (National Council of Accreditation of Teacher Education) or
2. accredited by Indiana's Unit Assessment System (UAS)

Applicants who wish to find out the institutions that are accredited by NCATE throughout the United States may go to the website www.ncate.org.

The list of institutions that have been accredited by Indiana's UAS can be found on our website at <http://www.doe.state.in.us/dps/licensing/advisors/contact.html>. This list also includes the contact person at each institution. If you are interested in completing a program at that institution, please contact the licensing advisor on this list.

On-line courses may be used to renew an Indiana teaching license if the delivery provider is a regionally accredited institution.
